PAVILION—NEW BRIGHTON.

THE improvements and repairs which have been undersaken in this establishment, being now completed the proprietor bers to inform py ties who are desirons of taking rooms there, that they are ready for their inspection.

Taying heard that it, has been currectly reported that all the best rooms at the Pavilion are engaged, the proprietor begs to attact that this rumor must have originated in his having declined m king engagements for specific suits of apartments with parties who have wished to take hem only from July. He begs therefore to state that there are still as many good rooms disergaged as taken, and that he will be happy to enter into arrange ments with parties withing to occupy the m from the early part.

F. BLANCARD has, at the same time, the honor to inform those families who have already engaged apartments, that the Pavilion will be open on Thursday, the first of May.

Philadelphia.

[Correspondence of the Herald.]

Philadelphia.

Late yesterday afternoon, the war fever in this quarter was somewhat excited, by a report that Mr. Dallas had been called to Washington by the Cabinet, upon business connected with our relations with England. The comequence of this is said to be visible in the state of our stock market to day. People here, as in all other sections of the Union, are busy speculating upon the probable course which Mr. Buchanan will pursue—whether he will meet the present crisis with sufficient firmness and decision of character. His most intimate friends, these who are in daily correspondence with him, say that he has saumed the highest position, is about to give the tiger grewl, and war whoop, and that he will pursue the most decided and unfailtering course for the honer of our country. Mr. Polk's stand in the matter, is that of dignified defiance, and the Secretary of State will support him up to the handle. This is the language of Mr. Buchanan's most intimate friends, and it is predicated not only upon their knewledge of the man, but also upon the tone and character of his correspondence with them. As for Mr. Dallas, I will state upon my own knowledge, that he is for temperately but firmly sustaining our pr. sent position with regard to England, and whatever measures the administration may adopt to sustain the honor of our country, will meet with his hearty co operation.

On this subject, I have reason to know the cabinet are unanimous; the great democratic party are unanimous; and the rank and file of all parties—whig, democratio and native, sye, native—will present an unbroken front in support of their country against British insolence and British dictation. As to the naive party, a war with England, or even a probability of such, will use it up much more effectually than a thousand New York defeats.

Yesterday evening the weather changed from warm and sultry to cold and chilly, and we had a coasiderable.

support of their country against British insolence and British dictation. As to the native party, a war with England, or even a probability of such, will use it up much more effectually than a thousand New York defeats.

Yesterday evening the weather changed from warm and sultry to cold and chilly, and we had a considerable thunder storm, succeeded by a rain which lasted all night. This has laid the dust, and is a glorious help to vegetation, which was suffering for want of moisture. Driesbach intends coming into the city on the first of May with his menagerie, and commences exhibiting on a lot situated among the west-enders, or among the residences of the upper ten thousand.

The Wallacks conclude an engagement to-night, at the Arch, by the play of Romee and Juliet. Mirs. W. takes the part of Romeo, while her husband takes that of Mercutic. Anderson commences on Monday in Hamlet. "Fashion" is still popular at the Walnut, and will continue so for two or three weeks yet, it is supposed. If it were a truthful satire upon fashionable life in this country, and expessed the English sympathies of our codfish aristocracy, instead of ridiculing, as it tries to do, the introduction of a little of the social democracy of the French metropolis, it would rally the most unbounded enthusiasm of our people to its support. Its popularity would be without bounds, and would make the eternal fortune, so to speak, of any person engaged in its production.

Among the literary circles here, there is considerable excitement. The great work entitled "Vestiges of Creation," is setting the people to investigating scientific subjects. This was a sisted by the series of lectures decided by Proiessor H.D. Fogers, on Geology, a short time ago, which prepared the public mind for the great and astounding truths which the "Vestiges" have laid open to their view. Other works upon physical science, those of a metaphysical kind, are about being published. A well known writer in this city, is about to produce a work on the necessity of evil, both m
